Visual Guide: The solid line plots genuine organic human traffic (with bots and anomalous spikes filtered out), while the dashed trendline captures the true multi-year direction. Plain-Language Finding: The chart reveals a distinct academic wave: traffic surges high each autumn and winter (September to May), but plunges sharply every summer. Because the baseline trend is sliding down (-83.7% CAGR), this visual evidence demonstrates that interest is driven by students doing homework for school exams rather than paying adult buyers.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Decision: DO NOT INVEST (NO-GO). Demand signal is decisively negative (-83.7% CAGR) or severely distorted by low volume (19,890 views) and high bot activity (0.0%). The initial wave of market interest has waned, leaving insufficient organic momentum to justify capital allocation. Immediate Action: Freeze standalone product development; reallocate engineering resources to higher-conviction opportunities.
